Anger as post office cuts are confirmed

ANGER and disgust have greeted the announcement confirming the closure of branch and village post offices in west Suffolk.

Newmarket's Exning Road branch is among 16 in the area to be axed with closures due to take place in the autumn.

Haverhill's Chalkstone post office as well as the village sub-post offices in Cowlinge and Barton Mills will also go.

The closure announcement by Post Office Ltd was made on Tuesday despite objections to many of the closures. In Newmarket, the town council objected to the closure of the Exning Road branch – the town's last remaining sub-post office.

The closure will leave only the main post office in the High Street. Cllr Bill Burch, former mayor of Newmarket, said of the closure decision: "I think it's a travesty. I think Post Office Ltd should be ashamed of themselves."

"There are a lot of old people in that area of Newmarket who will find it difficult to get down to the High Street. There's an impossible transport situation and once they get to the post office they will have to queue for half an hour. It's going to be a serious problem."

The owners of the Exning Road office have already applied for planning permission to convert the building into flats.

But Cllr Burch said he had hoped that a post office could have been established in another shop in the area.

MP Richard Spring, whose West Suffolk constituency includes Newmarket and Haverhill, said he was disgusted that all the threatened post offices in his constituency would be closing.

He said: "I am absolutely furious, they are not keeping any of these post offices open."

"They have gone through a completely farcical process."

"They never had any intention of keeping any of these post offices open, even the one at the Chalkstone which had real community support. I think it is disgusting."

During the six week local public consultation, Post Office Ltd received more than 4,600 responses and attended 28 meetings with customers and their representatives.

The closure decision has also come under fire from Forest Heath District Council.

Cllr Nigel Roman, chairman of the council's community services committee, said: "It is a short sighted decision and of particular concern to those who live in Barton Mills and who will have to travel over a mile to use a Post Office."

Duncan's top sport tips

OLYMPIC gold medalist Duncan Goodhew chatted to youngsters about the qualities needed to be a top athlete.

The 51-year-old top swimmer who won gold and bronze medals at the Moscow Olympics in 1980 met pupils at Newmarket's St Felix Middle School about the forthcoming Olympics.

His visit was organised by Premier Sport for which he acts as an ambassador. He said: "It's important to encourage youngsters to appreciate and enjoy sport from a very young age. It could play a big part in their future well being."

He overcame dyslexia and hair loss to reach the top in his sport.

Premier Sport works with schools across the country to encourage more youngsters to take up sport and exercise.

David Batch, of Premier Sport, said: "Sport offers the best possible way of encouraging youngsters to be active. Our coaches work closely with children aged from 4 to 12 years old, with an emphasis on making sport fun."

"It's a hugely effective way to encourage a healthy life style. Quite simply, the more active you are the better your chances of being fit and so avoiding obesity."

Pupils get to grips with art activities

CHILDREN at a village school made clay sections of totem poles as part of an art week.

All 90 pupils at Swaffham Bulbeck school took part in a range of activities during the week.

One of the parents helped the youngsters to make eight-inch sections of the poles representing different birds.

They will eventually be displayed in the school's wildlife area after the clay has been fired.

A professional artist also came in to the school to teach willow weaving. They made giant "mini-beasts" which are now hanging from trees in the school grounds.

Other activities during the week included weaving batik and sketching.

Donna Cornwell, the head, said: "The children had a fantastic week. What they really enjoyed was doing different things in a different place. They spent most of the week outside."

Man jailed for violent attack on two brothers

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

TWO brothers ended up in hospital after they were attacked in the street outside a pub.

One of them needed an operation to restore the sight in one of his eyes as a result of the violent attack by Ross Treby, 28, a court heard.

Treby, of Kendal Way, Cambridge, originally denied charges of actual bodily harm and grievous bodily harm to Ben and Gareth Jones. But he later changed his plea to admit the offences.

He was jailed for 32 months after Ipswich Crown Court heard he had made 30 previous court appearances for a total of 65 offences from the age of 13.

drivers and members of the public alerted police. Treby was watched on CCTV as he ran off along the High Street and into an alleyway.

Police officers arrested him almost an hour later after he tried to get into a taxi.

Gareth Jones told police: "The first memory I had was waking up in an ambulance, coughing blood and wearing an oxygen mask."

He was unconscious for a "significant" period of time and needed stitches at Addenbroke's Hospital to cuts on the back of his head, inside his mouth and his lip.

Ben Jones, who briefly fell unconscious during the attack, told police that he too had little memory of what had happened other than lying on the ground trying to defend himself while Treby landed a series of kicks to his head.

At hospital he was treated for grazes, cuts and later had an operation to reattach the retina of one eye.

Khadim Alhassan, defence barrister, said that Treby had suffered problems in his younger life, not of his making, which had led to excessive drinking and subsequent offending.

But he said: "There is hope for this young man. There is light at the end of the tunnel. It is now high time that he takes advantage of the help that is going to be available to him."

Graffiti at car park

BOYS aged between eight and 12 scrawled graffiti on walls in a multi-storey car park.

The boys, who had blond hair and spoke with foreign accents, were seen in the car park at Newmarket's Guineas shopping centre at about 8.55pm on Saturday.

They were both on BMX bicycles – one was white and the other was black. One boy was wearing a blue and white striped top and the other had a white top.

Anyone with information should call Pc Ian Holyland at Newmarket police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

BMW stolen from garage

A CAR together with 16 alloy wheels and other property has been stolen from a garage business.

The car, a blue BMW 525, registration M257 FJF, was at the garage in Kenny Hill for repair.

Tools, a carpet cleaner and six catalytic converters were stolen at the same time.

The car has an estimated value of £1,000. The other property was valued at £1,400.

Anyone with information about the incident, which happened between 8pm on Monday, June 16, and 8.30am the following day, should call Pc Wayne Borley, at Mildenhall police station (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Tributes pour in after death of popular GP

A MUCH-loved community doctor has died while taking part in a charity bike ride.

Dr Mark Towriss, 54, a partner at Bottisham Medical Practice for 22 years, collapsed and died on Sunday as he took part in the annual Arthur Rank Hospice family fun cycle ride.

Tributes have flooded in for the popular local GP who leaves behind wife, Ute, and four children – Catriona, 20, David, 19, Chris, 17, and Anna, 14. Mrs Towriss, of High Street, Swaffham Bulbeck, said: "He just loved life and I was very proud of him. He always had time for the children and shared their visions.

"He loved his garden and was a keen mountain walker and enjoyed kayaking."

A post-mortem examination is due to be conducted into the cause of Dr Towriss' death, but it is believed to have been from a heart attack.

A statement from the partners at his practice said:

"He loved his work as a doctor and cared deeply about his patients and the practice team at Bottisham.

"His death is a huge loss to his partners, to all the staff at the practice, to his patients and to the community."

Dr Towriss was highly regarded by his colleagues. He was a working member of the out-of-hours GP service, Camdoc, as well as a tutor of medical ethics and law at the Cambridge University Medical School.

Chris Banks, chief executive of Cambridgeshire Primary Care Trust, said: "Mark was held in the highest regard by all those who knew him in a professional and personal capacity."

Pat Dalrymple, head of fundraising for Arthur Rank House, said: "Mark Towriss' untimely death has robbed our community of a much loved and well respected GP."

Dr Towriss' funeral will be held on Monday at St Mary's Church, Swaffham Bulbeck.

will be keenly felt by the communities they served."

The Barton Mills post office had between 100 and 199 customers a week who will now have to travel to Mildenhall.

The district council objected to the Newmarket and Barton Mills closures.

Cllr Chris Turner, mayor of Newmarket, said the closure of the Exning Road branch in the town was not a surprise.

But he said: "It's a great shame because it leaves just one post office in Newmarket that's not always easily accessible by residents. I hope it doesn't create longer and longer queues."

Laura Tarling, Post Office Ltd Network Development Manager for Norfolk and West Suffolk, said: "These are difficult decisions which have not been taken lightly."

"We have considered very carefully all the comments made during the public consultation."

"We believe the amended plan offers our customers across Norfolk and West Suffolk, the best prospect for a sustainable network in the future, bearing in mind the Government's minimum access criteria and the other factors the Government has asked us to consider."

Gum-chewers told it's time to stick 'em up

A NEW way of tackling a sticky problem has been launched in a town's shopping centre. Newmarket's Guineas Centre has teamed up with Newmarket Community Partnership to start a trial scheme to have specific points where shoppers can dispose of their chewing gum.

GumTarget, as the disposal points are called, provides disposable paper sheets into which used gum can be stuck. The paper is changed each day with the used sheet being disposed of in the rubbish bin.

Across the country councils and shopping centre operators spend more than £150 million a year removing gum from pavements and floors.

Other towns which have launched gum awareness schemes have reported significant improvements. In Luton, the cost of removing gum from pavements has halved in six months.

Chewing gum takes five years to biodegrade and harms wildlife. As well as sticking to shoes and clothes gum is very difficult to remove from pavements.

Ross McKittrick, manager of the Guineas Shopping Centre said: "This scheme is used very successfully in towns all around the country and we hope it will be well received in Newmarket."

"Once people become used to putting gum on the sheets we are hopeful this pilot scheme will result in more boards in other locations in the town and help to reduce litter while continuing to improve the cleanliness of the streets."

Lifeguards pull unconscious pensioner out of town pool

SWIMMING pool lifeguards have been praised for saving a pensioner from drowning.

Alfie Westwood, 73, a long-serving horseracing worker, was pulled out of Newmarket pool after he was spotted unconscious on the bottom.

He was resuscitated at the pool in the High Street and was allowed home on Wednesday after an overnight stay in Addenbrooke's Hospital, Cambridge.

Mr Westwood, of Barry Lynham Drive, Newmarket, is a regular swimmer and works part-time for trainer Willie Musson and the National Horseracing Museum.

Last year he received a Lifetime in Racing award from Newmarket charity Racing Welfare.

Prime and Nathan Burgess dived in to rescue Mr Westwood after spotting him in difficulty during a lunchtime swimming session on Tuesday.

David dived in and supported Mr Westwood, who had been swimming with his twin brother John, at the side of the pool.

Nathan helped to pull him out and David gave him three breaths in mouth-to-mouth resuscitation before he came round.

The two pool attendants helped emergency services as they worked on the pensioner at the poolside for 20 minutes.

They later said they were "just doing our job."

Their action was praised by the head of Anglia

Community Leisure which took over running the pool from Forest Heath District Council last month.

Tony Bass, chief executive (designate) of the leisure trust, said: "Our staff are highly qualified and trained to deal with such incidents which, thank goodness, are very rare."

"We are immensely proud of the staff concerned who are reluctant heroes."

A doctor and an ambulance first responder treated Mr Westwood.

"The East Anglian Air Ambulance helicopter was also called but was not needed as Mr Westwood was taken to hospital by road ambulance."

'Healer' to preach

The Boundary Committee is due to give preliminary indication of its findings next month, but it is thought likely that the council will be merged into a new council for either West Suffolk or the whole of Suffolk.

He will speak at the morning and evening services at the church at 10.30am and 6.30pm. Rev Carl Morehouse, minister at Mildenhall Baptist Church, said: "This service is one of the prayer for healing services which we hold each month but this one is special as Don has been used by God many times in healing."

The protest was held on the last day for consultation about the proposals for the new "stacking" zone for aircraft waiting to land at Stansted.

He said that a preliminary report on the issue was expected at the end of July and a decision about the new "stacking" zones would not be made until the end of this year.

■ IDEA . . . William Gittus conducted road checks.

Picture: Warren Gunn 304023.

Safer horse crossing is 'kicked into touch'

SCHOOL-CROSSING style lollipop patrols have been discounted as a way of helping racehorses to cross town roads safely.

The idea was one of a number of measures investigated by Jockey Club Estates, which is responsible for the 2,800 acres of racehorse training grounds in Newmarket, following a collision between a car and a racehorse 18 months ago.

The rider was seriously injured, and the horse later had to be put down after the incident in Bury Road.

William Gittus, managing

BY John Goode

editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

director of Jockey Club Estates, said legal problems and the cost had ruled out the idea.

He told councillors and racehorse trainers at a briefing on safety measures that the idea had finally been "kicked into touch".

Mr Gittus said: "I thought of this idea about two or three years ago and other people have talked about it since then.

"I spent several mornings at the Bury Road crossing and I have never taken so much abuse as I did then - from trainers as well as motorists.

"Legislation does not allow just anyone to stop traffic and the on-going costs would be prohibitive."

He outlined other measures to improve safety at the 20-plus horse crossings in the town which included the use of different coloured anti-skid road surfaces, fixed "gates" at the roadside similar to village traffic calming schemes and reduced speed limits.

New signs are proposed on roads leading into the town warning motorists to slow down and be ready to stop for racehorses.

"Newmarket cannot be dealt with under normal highways policies," he said. "It has to be dealt with as an exception."

New laser beam sensors are also planned at crossing points to trigger traffic lights which either stop the traffic or flash to warn motorists.

At present riders have to pull a cord to operate the lights.

Mr Gittus said all the work at each crossing could cost "tens of thousands of pounds".

Jockey Club Estates would share the cost of the work with Suffolk and Cambridgeshire County Councils.

Polo club raises cash to help disabled people ride

A CHARITY polo event raised more than £3,000 for the Riding for the Disabled group.

An exhibition match was played by members of the Suffolk Polo Club at Six Mile Bottom.

The event was supported by local businesses including Musk's Sausages of Newmarket and the Three Blackbirds pub and restaurant at Woodditton.

The money raised will go directly to the Giron-based Beckbrook local group of the Riding for the Disabled Association.

Alison Schwabe, secretary of the Polo Club, said: "We are delighted to be able to help such a worthwhile cause, and grateful for the support of our sponsors."

The next charitable event organised by the Suffolk Polo Club will be the Newmarket Festival Polo Match sponsored by Lettergold, which will take place at Six Mile Bottom at 6pm on Wednesday, July 9.

Money raised will go to East Anglia's Children's Hospices.

Advance car passes can be obtained by sending a self-addressed envelope and a cheque for £5 to "Suffolk Polo Club", 1 Park View, Hare Park Stud, Six Mile Bottom, Newmarket, CB8 0UY.

Hutch, car and gardens vandalised

VANDALS caused damage to gardens and scratched a car in a village.

Hanging flower baskets were damaged and graffiti was drawn on a garden chair in Mildenhall Road, Barton Mills.

In another garden, in Church Lane Close, a hole was dug in the garden and a rabbit hutch and a washing line were damaged.

The car, a silver-coloured Ford Mondeo was scratched along the offside while it was parked in Church Meadow.

The incidents happened on the night of Thursday, June 19.

Anyone with information should call Pc Terence Harvey at Mildenhall police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

DISTRICT councillor Michael Allan was married to media consultant Mary Basham in London.

Cllr Allan, a Liberal Democrat member of East Cambridgeshire District Council, lives in Burwell and represents the villages of Fordham, Snailwell, Chippenham and Kennett.

He was formerly a bandsman with the Royal regiment of Fusiliers and the couple were allowed to use the regiment's chapel, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Holborn.

The church bells, known as the "Bells of Old Bailey", chimed out the children's rhyme Oranges and Lemons as the couple left after the service.

The service was followed by a lunch for family and close friends at the Tower of London, the regiment's official headquarters.

The bride wore a turquoise outfit by French designer Paul Vasseur and was given away by her grandson, Jameson Baldwin. Best man Lionel Perez flew in from Gibraltar for the occasion.

New chief and new unit at base

THE American Air Force air refuelling squadron at the Mildenhall base has got a new commander.

Lt Col Brett Pennington has taken command of the 351st Air Refuelling Squadron at the base which flies the KC-135R Stratotanker planes which carry out air-to-air refuelling operations.

He has moved from the Pentagon where he was chief of air refuelling capabilities for global operations.

At the same time a new unit has been formed at the base. The 100th Force Support Squadron replaces the 100th Mission Support Squadron and the 100th Services Squadron.

Lt Col Richard Wagner is the commander of the new squadron. He was previously commander of the Fort Jackson Military Entrance Processing Station in the USA.

Veteran gives crosses gift to German visitors

■ FRIENDS UNITED ... visitors from Germany with members of St Mary's Church, Burwell. Canon Stephen Earl, Burwell vicar, is behind the Union Jack, and Pastor Peter Nieber is behind the German flag.

A SECOND World War veteran presented hand-carved crosses to German visitors to his church as a symbol of reconciliation.

Norman Sibbons, who served in the Royal Navy during the war, made the presentation during a service at St Mary's Church, Burwell, which marked 10 years of links between the parish and the church in Bamsin, Germany.

Canon Stephen Earl, vicar of St Mary's, said: "It was a very poignant moment."

The Bishop of Ely, Dr Anthony Russell, granted special dispensation for a Lutheran church service to be conducted at the Burwell church by Pastor Peter Nieber, from Bamsin, during which the crosses were presented and gifts – including a German Bible – were given to the local hosts.

The 12 visitors from Bamsin visited Cambridge, Ely, Bury St Edmunds and London during their week-long stay in Burwell.

Full council will vote on £660,000 sports scheme

MAJOR decisions about a scheme to bring cricket matches and other sports to a town centre will now be taken by all 18 members of a council.

Newmarket Town Council agreed earlier this month to let a handful of councillors on a special working group appoint the project manager, architect and quantity surveyor for the £660,000 scheme to build a sports pavilion on the town's Severals green.

But now councillors have changed their minds and want the whole council to be responsible for all the major decisions, including the budget, timetable and main contractor as well as the appointments.

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

The council is hoping that an unnamed benefactor will help to pay for the scheme which has been under discussion for two years.

Newmarket Cricket Club wants to bring matches back to The Severals after a break of about 40 years.

The club is currently based at the George Lambton playing field in Fordham Road where the pitch and the club's equipment has been damaged by vandals.

But the pavilion, planned for an area of The Severals behind the town's war memorial, would be a facility for all sports clubs under the Sport Newmarket banner. The town council had hoped to make rapid progress with the scheme after delegating decisions to the working group earlier this month.

But now it has backtracked to set up a formal sub-committee to oversee the day-to-day running of the scheme while leaving major decisions to the full council.

Cllr Chris Turner, the mayor, said: "Through my naivety and wish to see the scheme move forward I allowed the town council meeting to delegate decisions."

He said Isabelle Barrett, the town clerk, had expressed concern that correct procedure was not being followed by allowing the working group to take decisions.

But he said he now felt "very comfortable" that the full council would make the major decisions.

Cllr Mick Jefferys, who chairs the council's leisure services committee, said: "We are trying to make sure that setting up sport on The Severals is absolutely in line with our standing orders."

The council would normally have to advertise for a project manager, architect and quantity surveyor.

But Ian Jackson, formerly Forest Heath District Council's sports development officer, is set to become the project manager after being closely involved with the scheme since its inception. An architect and surveyor are also lined up to do the work.

Small thief makes off with song birds from aviary

CAPTIVE-bred song birds worth about £1,000 have been stolen from their aviary.

The finches and hybrids were taken after wire was cut in the aviary at Swaffham Prior.

Breeder Terry Roberts said: "They were quite selective and must have taken some time to take these particular birds."

"How they got them in the dark I don't know."

"It would also have had to be someone quite small. They cut the wire to the aviary then took windows out."

He said some of the birds represented up to 10 years of breeding efforts to get cock birds for show purposes.

Three were 2006 birds and two were 2007 birds.

A total of 15 were stolen - five hybrids worth between £100 and £150 each and the others worth around £40 each.

Mr Roberts said: "They all had coded rings specific to me with a unique number. But the thieves will probably cut them off."

Some ornate antique-style cages were also stolen and it is believed were used to take the birds away in.

But he said the birds would not stay in good condition if they were kept in the cages.

The theft happened in the area of High Street, Swaffham Prior, between 8.30pm on Tuesday, June 17, and 8am the next day.

Police have appealed for anyone with information about the crime to contact the Crime and Incident Management Unit at Cambridge's Parkside police station on 0845 456 4564 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Garage roof lead stolen

LEAD worth £400 has been stolen from garage roofs.

Thieves struck at the Nimbus Way garage block on Newmarket's Studlands Park estate between 10.30am on Sunday, June 15, and 8am on Tuesday, June 17.

Five residents' lock-up garages were affected.

Anyone with information should call Pc Lee Sampher at the Newmarket North Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

There will also be an appearance by Darth Vader and the Stormtroopers, a display of Bentley cars and a chance to win a special Volkswagen camper van signed by The Who.

A charity auction includes a copy of Bentley The Story, signed by racing driver and television motor-racing pundit Mark Blundell, an exclusive day out at the Bentley factory in Crewe and an autographed plate from Scribbles pottery workshop in Newmarket signed by the players.

The unit at Addenbrooke's is expected to cost £2 million to build with half raised by the appeal by our sister paper the Cambridge News.

Building work is due to start next summer with the unit set to be completed by the end of the year.

Tickets for the match are £10 for adults with free admission for children.

The gates open at 11am and the match starts at 11.30am.

Rare chance to see a version of horse statue

VISITORS to the Animal Health Trust will have the rare chance to see a version of a life-size horse statue which is only on public display in the United States.

The Civil War Horse was commissioned in 1996 by racehorse owner Paul Mellon from sculptor Tessa Pullan. Now the full-size resin of the statue will be displayed as part of a contemporary art exhibition at the Trust's headquarters at Kentford.

It is normally kept at Tessa Pullan's studio in Rutland. The Paul Mellon Foundation has supported the Animal Health Trust for a number of years after his racehorse Mill Reef was referred to specialists there in 1972. The horse suffered a severe leg fracture but experts at the trust carried out an operation which meant he was able to stand as a stallion at the National Stud in Newmarket until his death in 1986.

Artists taking part in the exhibition include painters Jacquie Jones, Nicola Ottley and Neil Cawthorne, photographers Brian Singleton, Trevor Jones and Sidney Ricketts and sculptor Judy Boyt.

The exhibition will be part of the Newmarket July Festival, which is being held for the second year linked to the three-day race meeting at the town's July course.

The displays will be open to the public on Thursday, July 10, between 6pm and 8pm, and on Friday, July 11, between 10am and 8pm.

There is no charge for entry. But donations can be made to aid the work of the trust, whose patron is the Queen.

A sell-out start for summer

newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

CANADIAN rocker Bryan Adams gave a rousing start to the summer series of concerts after race meetings at Newmarket.

A capacity crowd of more than 20,000 at the July course joined in with his hits and danced as the Newmarket Nights Season got under way.

All tickets sold out well in advance – the first time the opening-night concert had seen a capacity crowd.

Adams, best known for his 16 weeks at number one with (Everything I Do) I Do It For You, is the biggest star to open the series of seven Friday night shows.

The gravel-voiced 48 year old included new material as well as his more popular songs in the show backed by his regular band.

■ BACK AGAIN . . . next up is Jools Holland who returns for his 12th Newmarket Nights show tomorrow.

The series continues tomorrow with course favourites Jools Holland and his Rhythm and Blues Orchestra featuring Gilson Lavis, Ruby Turner and Louise Marshall.

It will be the 12th year running that Jools Holland has played at the racecourse.

The series takes a break until mid-July when it returns with Girls Aloud, UB40 and Maxi Priest, The Feeling, Madness and Boyzone.

No sympathy for motorists on the phone

DRIVERS caught using their mobile phones behind the wheel will get no sympathy from Cambridgeshire Police, the force's casualty reduction officer says.

Pc Tony Barrios issued the warning as new figures showed the chances of being fined varied widely across the country – with some forces allowing officers to use their discretion.

Last year, Cambridgeshire Police issued 2,010 fixed-penalty notices for handheld phone use – and a crackdown in March caught 210 offenders in just 12 days.

There are around 164,000 drivers in the county – meaning fixed-penalty notices were handed out at faster rate than in neighbouring Northamptonshire, where 711 tickets were issued in a county of around 202,000 motorists.

Pc Barrios said: "All officers have a level of discretion in anything, but using a mobile phone while driving is a core offence which we treat very seriously."

"I would never use my discretion in this sort of case – it's something officers feel very strongly about."

In a nationwide survey carried out by The Enforcers magazine, Greater Manchester police were found to have issued the most notices.

Call box cash stolen

CASH was stolen from a public phone box in Rowley Drive, Newmarket.

The cash box was forced open at around 2.45pm last Thursday.

Lida Vets offer great small animal service

DOGS, cats and other small animals are a speciality at Lida Vets.

The practice's 2,500sq ft clinic at Grosvenor House, in the centre of Newmarket, has been established for 16 years, and was set up by Dr Josh Lida and his wife Liz.

Josh Lida heads a dedicated team of eight vets and nurses. He qualified at Edinburgh in 1981, later obtained a PhD at Cambridge and has lectured at the Royal Veterinary College.

He personally carries out most of the on-call and emergency work. When he is not involved in work at the practice he runs in marathons to raise money for animal charities including Newmarket Cats and Cataholics. And he is planning to run four marathons this year.

Nat Allen, another vet at the practice, takes part in charity polo matches.

The practice aims to carry out all treatments in-house to avoid having to send animals away. When necessary, specialists are called in to treat sick animals.

Dr Lida and his team aim to accommodate patients and their owners as conveniently as possible and offer continuity with the same vet looking after your pet.

A free consultation is on offer for new clients with discounts for returning pets.

For those in difficulty over payment for treatment, the practice is the only PDSA Pet Aid Centre in CB8 and CB9 postcode areas. It also offers R S P C A - assisted treatment.

Emergencies are dealt with in house with a critical care centre in Milton as back-up.

Among the services offered are slimming plans for overweight pets and advice can be given free of charge.

Dr Lida said: "We see many diabetic, arthritic and other sick pets whose conditions are linked to excess weight. They lose the joy and quality of life due to incorrect feeding."

"It is all so avoidable. Losing weight is so simple, cheaper and better for your pet and the environment."

■ FUNDRAISERS ... one of the floats in the parade at last year's carnival.

Record-breaking carnival back

A RECORD-breaking carnival will take place on Saturday.

Burwell Carnival, and its associated events, last year raised £7,000 which was shared by 26 village organisations. Villagers are hoping that a similar amount is raised from this year's event.

The float parade gets under way at 12.10pm starting from Margaret Field and ends up at the Village College field off Buntings Path. This year's theme is "Countries of the World".

Other attractions include a charity auction and a raffle with a £300 top prize, a tug-of-war pub team challenge in memory of villager Mark Cross, and live music into the evening.

The carnival is supported by a number of local businesses, including the Newmarket Weekly News.

Police make mark to cut metal thefts

CHEMICALS which rub off on criminals' clothes and skin and then glow under ultra-violet light are the latest weapon in the police arsenal against metal thefts.

Officers from the Cambridgeshire force are teaming up with BT and Anglian Water to stem the rising tide of thefts.

Phone cables in the county are to be marked with SmartWater technology - which links offenders to a crime scene.

Lead and copper have been stripped from lines across the county, as the value of scrap soars.

SmartWater is invisible to the naked eye but glows under UV light, allowing any recovered stolen property to be traced back to its original location.

Anglian Water already uses the technology at 1,000 sites across the region and has agreed to step up security at treatment sites in Cambridgeshire.

Countryside Watch teams will also be working with the police's Rural Crime Action Team to mark valuable machinery and equipment with SmartWater.

Police custody suites will be fitted with a UV arch, which all offenders will be asked to walk through. If they have any SmartWater on them it will glow.

Detective Inspector Andy Gipp, who leads Operation Suraman, said: "Metal theft can affect anyone so it is fantastic that the Countryside Watch, British Telecom and Anglian Water are taking it so seriously."

The police and BT have already started emailing scrap yards daily with details of metal thefts - which are estimated to cost the county around £500,000 a month.

Some villagers have been left cut off from essential services for days at a time after phone cables were stolen.

Officers also announced plans to give SmartWater kits to homes in Huntingdonshire.

Families will be able to have their property marked and details registered on the database - and stickers will be placed in the windows to deter burglars.

Inspector Robin Sissons said: "SmartWater has the double effect of enabling us to place offenders at the scene of a crime, and reassure the public their property is safer with the deterrent this UV substance creates."

LighterLife helps diet thinking

■ BEFORE . . . Victoria Hurley weighing more than 17st.

SINCE opening its doors just over two years ago, the Newmarket branch of LighterLife has helped hundreds of men and women successfully lose weight.

The LighterLife Programme is specifically designed for people who have three stone or more to lose. It combines the use of a very low calorie diet, made up of nutritionally complete soups, shakes and bars, with expert counselling.

"Counselling is essential if people are going to change their habits," says Gwen Owen, LighterLife counsellor, Newmarket. "No matter how successful you are at losing your weight, the biggest problem is keeping it off. The only way to ensure that you don't go back there is to change the way you think and to change your relationship with food. Our food packs will give you a weight loss, but that's almost incidental – it's changing your thinking that is so important."

After an initial information meeting to find if LighterLife is suitable for them, participants begin a 14-week programme, along with up to 11 others, in same-sex groups. Gwen says: "Throughout the programme each client stays with that same group of people. There are so many emotional issues surrounding obesity and the group work is pivotal for the weight loss. The group offers a tremendous amount of support and helps clients realise that they are not alone."

Gwen is speaking from experience, having gone through the programme herself three years ago. "I'd been able to keep my weight off all my life, but when I hit my menopause I put on three stone. I'd always been a gym member and always worked out, but recognised that that was no longer the answer. I needed to change some of the habits I'd got into," she remembers.

The programme was such a success for Gwen that she decided to become a full-time LighterLife counsellor.

"I'm now seeing so much return from people's satisfaction, and you can't put a price on that," she says. "So many people think there isn't a way out, especially women in the menopausal years. They believe that this is the way they're meant to be. Well I can tell them that it's not. I'd recommend them to come not just to lose their weight, but to get their life back."

Success for idyllic Chippenham Lodge

CHIPPENHAM Lodge Estate is undoubtedly one of the most sought-after venues for stylish weddings, private functions and corporate events in the Newmarket area. But the business's success is all the more impressive as it was only established three years ago.

The late Georgian country house was acquired in 2004 in a poor state of repair and, after a 12-month programme of renovation, opened its doors in May 2005. It now includes three beautiful suites, each of which is large enough for up to 58 guests or delegates, as well as a luxury silk-lined pavilion, which can accommodate up to 140 people.

"This is definitely our most successful year to date, with more than 100 bookings," says manager Linda Prior. "We believe our success is for three reasons. Firstly, anyone hiring the venue has its exclusive use for the day. This is ideal not only for brides and grooms on their special day, but also for corporate clients, who may have highly confidential matters to discuss."

"Secondly, our beautiful backdrop. We sit in 130 acres of prime stud land with plenty of mature trees, so it's a wonderfully peaceful, private and idyllic setting."

■ PEACEFUL . . . customers have exclusive access to Chippenham Lodge so there are no other parties about.

"Finally, we have discovered through feedback that clients are always delighted with our staff. Loyal and sincere, the team take huge pride in their work, and offer a highly personal service to ensure that events always run smoothly. So the exclusivity, the backdrop and the staff really has proved to be a winning combination."

Chippenham Lodge Estate also host Christmas parties and wedding fayres, and new for 2008 is a charity ball. "We've decided to choose one charity each year and host an evening with funds going to that charity," explains Linda. "This October we will be hosting a Pink Rose Charity Tribute Evening, including a Kylie tribute act, in aid of the Cambridge Breast Cancer Unit."

Fine family tradition at Page

FOR nearly 90 years three generations of the Page family have been selling beautiful jewellery.

Cecil Page founded the business in the mid-1920's when he opened the first branch in Burleigh Street, Cambridge.

The business relocated soon after to larger premises on the corner of Regent Street, Cambridge where the business flourished for more than 50 years, not only in the retail sector but also in the wholesale and manufacturing of fine jewellery.

The Page name was not only well known around the Cambridge area, but also around the country as a supplier to the jewellery trade.

In the early 1980's the business relocated again, this time to Newmarket High Street under the name of Carousel Jewellers. Again the business flourished in the busy market town and in 2006 opened its second premises in Market Street, Ely after reverting both shops back to the family name of Page.

Today the shops have a nice mix of hand made pieces from their own workshops and a section of leading international luxury brands including Tolkowski Diamonds, Paul Spurgeon D Flawless collection, Links of London, understanding of the cause of painful dysfunction patterns.

A famous local horse trainer once commented to one of the osteopaths that there is no point in getting old without becoming wiser. This sentiment is carried through the clinic's principles as it would rather have someone adopt a regular Pilates class and reap the physical rewards of improved core stability, back and pelvic floor muscles and prevent injury, rather than become a weekly feature at the clinic.

Derby Cottage Clinic has its own in house Pilates and Yoga studio. The classes are small and personal and the instructor's attention to detail enables permanent changes to posture and movement to be achieved by toning the muscles that form a natural corset around the abdomen.

The team of practitioners are all local people who are highly qualified and registered with professional bodies. New to the clinic is Juliette Baysham who now offers a baby/children's clinic on Friday afternoons and Saturday mornings.

Congestion charge plan is scrapped

CONTROVERSIAL plans for charging motorists up to £5 for driving in Cambridge have been scrapped.

Cambridgeshire County Council made the shock announcement on Monday night, saying it was going "back to the drawing board" due to "lack of support" from the public and businesses.

It had planned to charge motorists, including city residents, between £3 and £5 for driving in Cambridge between 7.30am and 9.30am Monday to Friday.

The scheme was met with a storm of protest when it was unveiled last July as residents said they were being taxed for leaving their own homes, commuters claimed they would be unable to afford to get to work and businesses warned they would be forced to leave town.

Now Cllr Jill Tuck, the new leader of the county council, said the scheme needs "at the very least, refinement" and announced the formation of a new commission which will investigate the issue and come up with an "innovative and far-reaching transport strategy for Cambridge".

BY Rachel Extance

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

But the council is not completely abandoning the idea of congestion charging and has said it is still hoping to secure £500 million for transport improvements from the Government's Transport Innovation Fund (TIF).

The move has been widely welcomed by opposition groups including councillors and business leaders.

Cllr Tuck said: "We have listened carefully over the last few months and it is clear that the Transport Innovation Fund scheme we put forward last autumn does not have sufficient support either from other key organisations or the public and needs, at the very least, refinement."

"The Government's Transport Innovation fund does give us a unique opportunity to attract substantial Government funding for transport improvements and we will continue to work with them in the hope of securing that.

"The £500 million we have requested is way in excess of anything we could ever raise locally, but such a huge cash injection does have to be accompanied by a congestion charging scheme.

"It will be for the commission to determine what is best for Cambridge but any scheme must have support from key public and private organisations and also the public."

Among those invited to be part of the commission are the Chamber of Commerce and Trade and the Federation of Small Businesses.

Addenbrooke's Hospital - whose chief executive Gareth Goodier wrote a "strongly worded" letter to the council opposing its inclusion in the scheme earlier this year - is also included.

Cambridge Chamber of Commerce launched the People Against Congestion Charge Alliance last month. John Bridge, chief executive of Cambridgeshire Chambers of Commerce, said: "We welcome this initiative and hope to work together in true partnership to find the right set of recommendations to get to a solution."

Opposition councillors and business leaders said the council was right to reassess the plans while leaving the opportunity to bid for £500 million from the Government for transport improvements on the table.

But proposals for a new commission involving business groups, Addenbrooke's Hospital and Cambridge University, have been criticised as leaving the critical issue of transport planning for Cambridge in the hands of an "unelected quango".

Martin Lucas-Smith, from Unclod Cambridge and co-ordinator of Cambridge Cycling Campaign, said: "Congestion charging, and the massive upfront money from government that would accompany it, offers everyone - motorists included - many benefits.

"As a local expert body on this issue, Cambridge Cycling Campaign will be demanding a place on the commission.

"The Cycling Campaign feels it will be a valuable forum in which to make clear to various stakeholders the range of benefits that congestion charging would have, when combined with the £500 million of up-front money that is at stake.

"The county council's announcement today does not form the end of the line for congestion charging, and it should not be seen that way. It is clear to us that the absolutely massive improvements to public transport and cycling planned will not come from the government if a congestion charge is not introduced."

Warning over blaze risks in the kitchen

■ TOO HOT ... above and below, firefighter Patrick Clarke demonstrates just how dangerous a chip pan fire can be. Pictures: Richard Marsham 492638/41.

BY Chris Havergal

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

FIREFIGHTERS put on an explosive display to warn of the danger of kitchen blazes.

The demonstration – where an officer put a small amount of water on a pan of burning oil – marked the start of the Cambridgeshire force's kitchen fire safety week.

Officers are concerned that, although the total number of home fires in the county is falling, the number of kitchen fires is at a five-year high. There were 316 in 2007/8 – up from 245 in 2003/4.

In the same period, two people have died in kitchen fires, and 245 have been injured. More than half of all kitchen blazes are caused by a power supply or pan being left unattended.

As a result, the service has launched a new kitchen safety section on its website.

Wendy Coleman, community safety adviser, said: "Cooking is the biggest cause of accidental home fires in the county. We want residents to understand why the kitchen can be the most dangerous place in their home.

"We want them to be aware of the threat of injury to their family and loved ones and the damage to property that can be caused as a result of a fire."

Film star at US base

FILM and television actor Gary Sinise will perform for American Air Force personnel with his Lt Dan Band later this month.

The show, free to service personnel but not open to the public, will be staged in a hangar at the Mildenhall air base on Sunday.

The CSI:NY actor, who plays bass guitar, formed the band with guitarist Kim Williams to give shows to US troops.

The band takes its name from character he played in the film Forrest Gump.

Top rose cutting advice

How to cultivate your favourite plants

I HAVE the most glorious David Austin rose, "Golden Celebration", recommended to me several years ago by the man himself when I inquired whether it was possible to grow fragrant old English roses in large containers, writes Hannah Stephenson.

This repeat-flowering yellow shrub rose has now been housed in a large wooden trough for several years and is still doing well, but I would like to replicate its appearance and scent in other spots in my garden, which brings me to the subject of propagating roses.

Taking rose cuttings is a really easy process as they will grow on their own roots. You can root the softwood cuttings in the open ground on a spare patch of land in early summer. The cuttings should be about 15-20cm (6-8in long).

The advantage of a rooted cutting is the absence of suckers – all shoots belong to the variety being grown.

Choose healthy stems of the current season's growth and take off the lower leaves, leaving the bottom two-thirds of the stem bare. Use a sharp knife to trim off the bottom of the stem just below a leaf joint.

Nip the growing tip out of the shoot, as the tips of rose cuttings are very soft and likely to develop fungal disease.

Dip the base of the cutting into hormone rooting powder before placing it into well prepared ground. Take more than one cutting in case some don't succeed and leave a space of at least 15cm (6in) between each.

If you are putting them straight into the ground they will need protecting with a mini cloche or a soft plastic drinks bottle cut in half. This will help to build up the humidity underneath.

Alternatively, place four or five cuttings into a 20cm (8in) pot filled with seed compost and cover the pot with a large, loose polythene bag after watering them in. They can be kept in a shady spot and the compost should be kept moist.

As soon as the rose cutting starts to grow new leaves – usually a sign of rooting – then gradually take the cover off and grow the plant on as a normal potted shrub.

Your cuttings should be well rooted by the autumn and rose plants can then be potted up individually, to be planted out next summer. If you plant them out before then, you risk them being smothered by weeds or being trodden on and snapped.

You can wait until later in the year to propagate roses, taking hardwood cuttings in early autumn. Rooted outdoors, they should provide young plants after a year.

Remember to look after your stock once you have increased it. Now is the height of the flowering season but also the time when pests and diseases turn up to ruin all your hard work.

Watch out for blackspot, which looks like ink spots on the leaves and can destroy your roses. Mildew and rust can also be disastrous for roses and spraying may be the only solution.

However, there are so many disease-resistant types of rose on the market now, it's worth investing in a few to give you blemish-free, glorious roses in future.

Heraldic tale for little chips off the old block

By Nik Shelton

FAMILY tale The Sword in the Stone will be staged in the open air this summer before winding up at the Cambridge Arts Theatre. The Cambridge Touring Theatre company has become a firm favourite with youngsters in recent years putting on shows including The Wind in the Willows and Robin Hood. There were doubts over its future when funding cuts struck many local theatre groups recently but it has weathered the storm and this year it will round off its tour of the area's parks and halls with a run at the theatre for the first time. Arts Theatre manager Dave Murphy says: "We're delighted to be welcoming Cambridge Touring Theatre to our stage for the first time. All of us recognise the importance of encouraging families to come not only to our theatre but to theatre in general. "This is an outstanding local family-oriented company and we hope this year's production will be the first of many." The story follows the age-old tale of the young squire Arthur and his mentor, wizard Merlin, as they try to fulfil the prophecy of the sword

■ STONE AGE . . . Arthur warms up as the Cambridge Touring Theatre company puts the final touches to its production of The Sword in the Stone.

in the stone, and it features song and dance numbers and a healthy dose of audience participation. "I would say that we are not just surviving one of the worst arts cuts in the history of the theatre, but we seem to be actually thriving," says the company's leader Rosie Humphries, who learnt her trade at the English National Opera in London. "We have a very strong family feel to the company. All performers are chosen because they enjoy children. We are going from strength to strength." The tour starts at East Town Park in Haverhill on Saturday at 1pm before it goes to Houghton Mill near Huntingdon at 6.30pm. It will be at Wimpole Hall on Friday, July 11, at 6pm, before a regional tour which culminates with a run at the Arts Theatre from Tuesday, July 22, until Sunday July 27. For more information or to book tickets call the box office at (01223) 503333.

MOTORING

Bentley's super-flyer is all go

IT was Ettore Bugatti who said of WO Bentley: "Mr Bentley produces the fastest lorries in Europe."

This was a sidelong swipe at massive machines such as the 1928 supercharged Bentleys that hastened the English upper classes to picnics, down to Monaco or even to a win at Le Mans.

Today's Bentley is still massive, it still offers the highest standards of engineering and comfort and still does about the same to the gallon – around 12 if you are lucky. The Flying Spur will set you back £117,500 and I will leave you to work out how much the 20 gallon fuel tank will cost at the pumps. Frankly you do not run a Bentley if money is in any way a problem.

When I sank into the leather and walnut of the car and viewed the quarter deck stretching out in front I expected leisurely progress. But the Flying Spur is well named and reaches 60mph in 4.9 seconds having no doubt shot several gallons into the twin turbocharged V12 engine.

FIRST DRIVE

Large, pricey, luxurious

Inside, the Bentley is regally appointed. Full leather seats, trim and headlining are standard as are electric seats, four-zone climate control and satnav. If you are not entirely satisfied with the rear bench seat this can be replaced by tailored, individual arm chairs.

The car rides exceptionally well and most road irregularities are simply smothered by the adjustable suspension. It can get a little unsettled on poor roads.

It is very difficult to hear the engine when cruising. Such enviable levels of silence do, however, throw up other problems. You can hear wind around the mirrors at motorway cruising speeds although, to be fair, on most cars it would be drowned out by other sounds.

■ THE BENTLEY FLYING SPUR... leather, wood and plenty of toys!

If I have a criticism of the Flying Spur it is one of visibility. The internal mirror seems remarkably mean and offers a rather poor view through the modestly sized rear window. And the door pillars take their structural strength seriously and tend to block off a chunk of view when rounding a bend or attempting to park.

The ignition key can be kept in the pocket and the car started via a button on the centre console or if you prefer a traditional approach you can stick the key in an ignition lock and turn it. The handbrake is electronic and releases itself on moving off.

For a day at the races the boot is positively enormous and well able to take a picnic basket – 475 litres of well-shaped space to be precise. The boot can be opened remotely and closed automatically via a small button set in its edge.

BASICALLY...

A traditionally luxurious saloon for those not bothered by money or green credentials. Mechanical parts are largely from VW and Audi and have proven reliability. Bugatti might call it large but he could no longer refer to it as a lorry.

MOTORING

■ THE HONDA CR-V... the SUV fared better than its Swindon stablemate, the Civic.

JAPANESE cars have always been reliable, but they're getting even more dependable, says Which? Car – apart from the Honda Civic (which is actually made in the UK).

In the UK's biggest car reliability survey, Japanese car makers have swept the board, taking the top seven spots in this year's brand reliability table. Honda is top of the chart with a reliability index rating of 85 per cent, followed by Toyota (84 per cent), Daihatsu (83 per cent), Lexus (83 per cent), Mazda (83 per cent), Subaru (83 per cent) and Suzuki (83 per cent).

However, the Swindon-made Honda Civic (post-2006) falls well short of the brand's usual reliability standards. It languishes in joint-bottom spot, on 82 per cent, in the medium cars table (along with the Citroën C4). Honda's Japan-built Civic Hybrid, on the other hand, tops the large car chart with a reliability score of 95 per cent.

It's not great news for British car manufacturers either: Land Rover's reliability is poor – joint bottom of the table (with the American brands Chrysler/Dodge) with a disappointing 67 per cent; Vauxhall is poor (75 per cent), while Jaguar (78 per cent) and Mini (78 per cent) are just average.

Contrary to popular belief, the expensive German marques of Audi, BMW and Mercedes-Benz all have average reliability scores, while Volkswagen is rated as poor. The popular Volkswagen Passat (post-2005) has the joint-lowest reliability score (with the Citroën C5) – 80 per cent – in the large cars category.

Richard Headland, editor of Which? Car, says: "Japan continues to show the rest of the world how to make consistently reliable cars, although the new Honda Civic shows they're not infallible. Some British-built cars, on the other hand, don't exactly run like clockwork. Land Rover, in particular, needs to raise its game."

Toyota 'vision' is on the way

JAPANESE car maker Toyota has announced a formidable array of classic and contemporary vehicles for its entry in the upcoming Goodwood Festival of Speed (July 11-13).

Along with a mouth-watering collection of racing cars and bikes, Toyota is also promising an appearance by its i-REAL concept (pictured). According to the firm it is a "vision for the future of everyday, sustainable personal transport" and will be making its UK debut.

Other attractions include Toyota's 2007-spec F1 racer and the successful TS010 Le Mans car from the 1991-1993 seasons.

■ VISION... the i-REAL.

Honda's FCX Clarity in production

A HYDROGEN fuel cell car that emits only water from its exhaust pipe started coming off a production line this week.

The first three Honda FCX Clarity cars were presented to American customers in Japan and about 70 a year will be produced.

Those using the car – likely to include actress Jamie Lee Curtis – will be involved in a three-year lease plan paying around £300 a month, including insurance.

At the heart of the FCX

Clarity is a fuel cell stack – a device that uses an electrochemical reaction between hydrogen and oxygen to convert chemical energy into electrical energy to power a motor that drives the car's wheels.

Honda's FC stack simultaneously generates electricity and water, emitting no carbon dioxide or other harmful emissions.

"The arrival of the first hydrogen fuel cell car is particularly significant during this time of rapidly increasing oil prices," said John Kingston, environment manager for Honda UK. "Honda is proud to offer an alternative energy solution that could reduce our dependence on fossil fuels and the effect of motoring on climate change."

Jones guides Burwell back to the top spot

BURWELL returned to the top of the Tucker Gardner Cambs and Hunts Premier League, Division One table with a four-wicket success at Histon, making the most of the opportunity offered them when leaders Nassington's match against Wisbech was rained off.

Captain Mark Blissett's 4 for 9 was the main reason for Histon not scoring more than 219 for 5.

But Burwell were made to work for the win, wobbling at 62 for 4 before an unbeaten 76 from Daniel Jones steadied the ship and they were able to get in at 220 for 6.

Fordham drew for the sixth time in Division Two this season, this time at Waresley. The hosts stuttered to 148, led by 54 from Phil Masdin as John Harding did the damage for Fordham with 4 for 48, backed by three wickets for Ian Jellyman. Laurence Boshier then took 3 for 9 off seven overs to hit Fordham's batting line-up, but they held on for 102 for 9 with Chris Rule (25) top-scoring.

Skeet so proud of Newmarket squad

NEWMARKET'S swimmers have got a big thumbs-up from head coach, Annette Skeet. Reflecting on a busy season, she said: "In the Regional Youth & BAGCAT Championships and the Development Championships, they have done themselves proud."

"Leah Fisher and Max White had some good results from the regional championships. Hannah and Molly Reeder, Ashley Trent, Sean Collier, Alex Taylor and Laura Searl had two weekends of racing at Norwich with some very good personal bests - Hannah was reserve in both her finals, Sean got into two finals, while Alex and Laura both came away with medals."

"The Development Championships saw 20 swimmers go to Ipswich Crown Pool. Between them they swam in 94 races and achieved 59 personal bests and 14 county qualifying times for next March."

"For some swimmers this was their first taste of big competition and, although the nerves showed, they all swam very well and should be proud of their achievements."

"I would like to thank all the swimmers for working hard this year in training and when competing they have a great team spirit and support each other very well."

"We have just a few galas to go before the end of this training year, so good luck to them in the Fenland Leagues and the Bussens & Parkin Gala."

Isleham in search

ISLEHAM'S under-14s are looking for the next David James or Paul Robinson for the start of pre-season training. With a keeper their priority, they are back in action from July 9 (Isleham Rec, 6.30pm). For further information contact Craig Boneham (01638 781693).

Ton-up Matt back in the old routine

MATT Catley rolled back the years to smash an unbeaten 145 for Exning, who remained unbeaten at the top of Division Two following a 43-run win over Witham.

Things did not start well for the leaders, who were 1 for 2 early on, but captain Catley joined Chris Lomas (44) to put on 96 for the third wicket and then formed a match-winning 114 partnership with Daniel Baigent (35 not out) for the seventh wicket. With 20 boundaries and two sixes they pushed Exning along to 255 for 6.

Witham started the chase strongly, but they were undone by the steady bowling of David Atkinson, who managed to pinch 5 for 42, to send the visitors crashing to 215 all out.

In Division One, table-topping Mildenhall suffered their first defeat of the campaign as they lost by two wickets at Abberton.

Mildenhall were put in to bat on a slow wicket and despite Francois Bester hitting 50, they were dismissed for 153.

Bester also produced the goods with the ball, taking 4 for 35, but Abberton passed the target with two wickets to spare.

Mildenhall II also lost by nine wickets at struggling 10-man Tuddenham in Division Three.

Skipper Steve Lankester hit 71 and Adam Trett 44 as they combined in a half-century stand. But Andy Brown, making his Tuddenham debut after moving from Tucker Gardner Cambs & Hunts Premier League side Burwell, claimed 3 for 24 and 14-year-old Nathan Poole took 1 for 19 as Mildenhall were bowled out for 184.

In reply, Dave Cross (95 not out) and Steve Titcombe featured in an opening stand of 60 before Cross linked with Kevin Poole (51 not out) as they came through with just one wicket down.

Lakenheath went down by four wickets at home to Felixstowe in Division Three.

The hosts were struggling on 55 for 7 before Andy Leech made 33 and captain Paul Pallant an unbeaten 30 as they set a target of 128 for 9.

Keith Starr took 3 for 42, but Felixstowe passed their total for the loss of six wickets.

How a Girl raised Morris' profile

A YEAR ago this weekend apprentice jockey Luke Morris rose to prominence with a victory in the Northumberland Plate at Newcastle aboard Juniper Girl. Morris brought the 5-1 favourite with a strong late challenge to nab the prize by a short head for Derby-winning trainer Michael Bell.

"It's the best moment of my career. I'd never had a buzz like that," said Morris. "You strive to have winners like that and the filly was as genuine as she could be."

The £200,000 Northumberland Plate was one of 38 winners last season for the 3lb claimer, who has seen his profile raised since that victory.

He said: "It's definitely helped. I'm riding for a lot more trainers and it's helped me get noticed."

"That's what you want to be, riding for big trainers, riding big winners in big races." Morris moved to Newmarket from Oxfordshire at the age of six and started riding out for Bell when he was 13.

However, it was the mentoring of former jockey John Lowe that really pushed 19-year-old Morris into the riding ranks. "John Lowe's been great. I've known him since I was riding out at Michael Bell's and he's given me lots of great advice," he said. "It's been a great help to have someone like him." He is also aware how important it was to get connected with a large stable such as Bell's to get his career going.

"I think it helped," said Morris. "It's given me a lot of opportunities, but now I'm coming to the end of my claim I'm riding for others to build some bridges." The bridge-building has seen Morris go to all corners of the globe having spent the last two winters in California and Australia respectively.

He rode for Neil Drysdale and Ben Cecil when in the States, and in Australia the young apprentice teamed up with leading-trainer Gai Waterhouse. He said of Australia: "I had a few rides but the riding is so much more tactical."

"It's a different style of race-riding against the clock and can help you judge pace. It's (travelling) something all the top jockeys do."

Johnny Murtagh went to Australia. Jamie Spencer and Frankie Dettori all did it when they were apprentices." But riding abroad was part of a more cunning plan hatched by Morris to help with his riding at home.

"I've never spent a winter on the all-weather, to try to save my claim for the grass and the bigger races," he said.

Last season Morris's 38 winners saw him finish fourth in the champion apprentice title race.

And despite ambitions to be the champion this season, suspensions mean he is already focussing on next term. "William Buick is doing well and is too far out of reach," said Morris.

"This year has stayed good with plenty of rides and the title is something to look forward to next year."

Baker puts dough in punter's pocket

GEORGE Baker stole the show at Newmarket with a stunning 14,039-1 four-timer on Brunelleschi (12-1), Aphrodisia (11-1), Dubai Princess (14-1) and Harald Bluetooth (5-1).

And one lucky Stan James punter is £125,000 richer thanks to putting the winning quartet in a £2 each-way Lucky 15 bet.

Head of PR Charlie McCann said: "One of our regular clients decided to overlook Royal Ascot and back George Baker's mounts at Newmarket."

"By taking the best odds guaranteed prices with us he won an additional £11,289. One thing is for sure - it was a day to remember for the Baker Boy and at least one lucky punter who is unlikely to be having bread and water this evening."

The freelance jockey took his tally for the year to 49 with winners for four different trainers despite going down on his first ride, Dubai Meydan, in the opener. He quickly got into top gear, striking first on Brunelleschi for Patrick Gilligan then on the Stuart Williams-trained Aphrodisia, followed by Dubai Princess for Jamie Osborne and signing off on Harald Bluetooth from the James Fanshawe stable.

SPEEDWAY: TWO MORE LEAGUE DEFEATS, BUT THIS TIME THERE'S CAUSE FOR OPTIMISM

Tigers on right track

PREMIER LEAGUE

THERE were finally encouraging signs for the West Row faithful as Mildenhall's spirited fightback threatened a first league victory.

Another home humiliation looked on the cards as the Fen Tigers trailed 28-14 after seven heats with ropery track conditions causing havoc for both teams.

But Pole Michal Rajkowski proved an inspiration as he took his second race victory stylishly in heat eight, in a tactical ride for a 6-3 advantage, reducing the deficit to 11 points.

Last season's Tiger, Tomas Suchanek - a guest in place of injured Jari Makinen - notched another win in heat nine, and then teamed up with Rajkowski for a stunning 5-1 maximum over Swede Magnus Karlsson, slicing the margin to just five points.

With spirits lifted, Graversen rode a determined line to see off Carl Wilkinson in the first turn of heat 11, which sparked controversy.

The pair exchanged words, and the argument escalated into both camps squaring up in the pits, with officials being pulled apart by security.

Mildenhall - Rajkowski 14 (6 rides),

Suchanek 11+1 (6), Graversen 8 (6), Laukkanen 4 (4), Loof 2 (3), Baseby 1+1 (5).

Scunthorpe - Sanchez 10+3 (5), Karlsson 10+1 (5), Wilkinson 9+1 (4), Bekker 8+2 (4), Bergstrom 7 (4), Hall 6+1 (4), Powell 3+1 (4).

Scunthorpe 48 Mildenhall 42

PREMIER LEAGUE

ROCK-BOTTOM Mildenhall almost pulled off the shock result of the season after leading Scunthorpe for five heats before succumbing to their eighth away defeat, 48-42, on Friday.

The Fen Tigers were boosted by the inclusion of guest Suchanek, who secured three wins among his top-scoring haul, and gained excellent back-up from Kaj Laukkanen and Mark Baseby.

Scunthorpe - Hall 11+1 (5 rides), Karlsson 10+1 (5), Sanchez 8+1 (4), Bergstrom 7 (4), Wilkinson 6+2 (4), Bekker 4+1 (5), Powell 2 (3).

Mildenhall - Suchanek 12+2 (6 rides), Laukkanen 9 (5), Baseby 8 (6), Rajkowski 7+1 (5), Graversen 5+3 (5), Loof 1 (3).

■ Skipper Kaj Laukkanen finished a disappointing 15th in Saturday's Grand Prix qualifying round in Lonigo, and he looked jaded in his opening races, only finding any real form with victory in heat 12. But hopes of success were quashed with Graversen hitting the fence in heat 13 and failing to make up ground as a tactical sub in heat 14.

■ Tigers are due to be at home to Glasgow in the Premier League on Sunday (4.30pm).

■ MICHEL RAJKOWSKI . . . proved to be an inspiration against Scunthorpe on Sunday.
